Attention to detail

Tell us about your projects: we are customization specialists.

Finding a translator or proofreader as highly experienced as possible in your field and the application of international quality control standards are elements that, in any translation project, are the keys to success and which, together with checking the layout of translated work, must fully meet your expectations.

No matter what the nature of your project, you can count on us your dedicated team, including a project manager, several translators and proofreaders and a layout specialist.

Using glossaries and specialist lexicons, we build a terminology database validated for each area of business and large-scale project.

Get an instantaneous translation estimate!

The 001 Translation team has just developed an application that generates a free, interactive on-line estimate

The idea is simple: to get your instantaneous estimate, just upload the documents you want translated by our specialist translators to 001 Translation's secure servers.

In a matter of seconds, the application will accurately analyze your documents (in Word, PowerPoint, Excel, HTML or zip format) and output a custom calculation of your translation project in real time.

An ergonomic translation estimate in a single step!

But this technological breakthrough does not end there; the estimate request is highly intuitive and natural and uses one page only.

With a simple click, you can enter the basic requirements of your translation: source and target languages, delivery time, industrial sector and the payment currency. Your translation request is handled immediately online and in complete confidence.

Superior service, always competitive

Strict cost control

The document analysis takes place in the background and, within a few seconds, the translation estimate can be printed or downloaded and, of course, the order can be placed directly while on-line.

“Of course”, says Avi Sofer, 001 Translation’s Manager of Marketing and Promotion, “the use of new technologies has a direct effect on the costs of translation. Automation handles the traditional administrative tasks requiring in preparing the translation estimate”.

... underpinning quality control

“Moreover”, says Sofer, “our project managers can now fully dedicate themselves to managing the quality and costs associated with your translations.”

This means that there is more time for continual assessment of the performance and results of our 3,000 external specialist translators around the world.

In an environment where technology plays an ever-increasing role, the relationship with the customer remains the keystone of our translation services. It is a commitment that we take seriously.
